5 TIPS FOR CONTROLLING YOUR ANGER

Whether you’ve been on hold with customer service for 20 minutes or just got cut off by another driver, daily life can throw a lot of frustrations at you. Coping with them without losing your temper can be a challenge.

“Anger is an emotion that everyone has to deal with, and lots of people have trouble controlling their anger,” says Scott Wetzler, Ph.D., vice chairman and professor in the Department of Psychiatry at Montefiore Medical Center, Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City. “But while anger can actually be a useful emotion, if you deal with it in an unconstructive way, it can have a very destructive effect on those around you.”

To cope with your anger effectively, it can be helpful to know what’s prompting your rage. “Anger is usually connected to thoughts that center around the theme of injustice,” according to Simon Rego, PsyD, director of psychology training at Montefiore. “We all have rules and expectations that we think should be followed by everyone, and when those around us break these rules, we can experience anything from mild frustration to real rage, depending upon on how important that particular rule is to us and how rigidly we uphold it.”

The next time you feel your anger getting out of control, try the following techniques:

1. Think a Little Differently

“You may want to consider being more flexible with your rules, or beliefs, or even changing some of them—especially if you’re constantly feeling angry,” Rego says. “If you can change the way you think, you can change the way you feel.”

For instance, say you go to a movie and another moviegoer leaves his cell phone on, despite an announcement to turn them off. As you watch the movie, you can see the light from his cell phone screen. You can either become angry and think how thoughtless and selfish the person is, or you can consider that he may be a physician on call. If you knew that this was the case, would you still be angry? Probably not.

This approach—trying to think of reasons why a person may be acting in a certain way, rather than focusing on how frustrating their behavior is—can change your perspective. This can help prevent you from saying or doing things that you may later regret, Rego says.

5 TIPS FOR CONTROLLING YOUR ANGER (con't)

2. Take a Time Out

Turning away from the source of anger is a tried-and-true method. “Just disengage,” Wetzler says. “If you can disengage from whatever is provoking you, you will calm down.” Take just 10 minutes to focus on something else.

Often, this will give you enough time to get your anger under control. If concentrating on something else for 10 minutes isn’t possible, then count to 10—slowly. “This gives you a chance to suppress the overt materialization of the anger,” says Wetzler. “If you count to 10, you can override the emotional signal that ... is telling you to take action, to get angry.”

3. Plan Ahead

If you can anticipate what triggers your anger, you may be able to prevent the problem. For instance, if you know you get angry with your daughter about her messy room and her lack of interest in cleaning it, discuss this with her before you’re in a towering rage—that is, while her room’s still relatively neat. But understand that when it comes to kids, you may need to consciously change your expectations of what you think your child’s behavior should be, Wetzler says.

4. Stop and Think Before You React

How many times have you regretted what you said or what you texted? “Learning to think before speaking or even hitting ‘send’ on your cell phone is an invaluable skill, and one that is worth learning,” says Victor Fornari, MD, director of the division of child and adolescent psychiatry at Zucker Hillside Hospital in Glen Oaks, NY and Cohen Children’s Medical Center in New Hyde Park, NY.

Make it a priority to just pause and think before you speak out, he advises. “It is a wise way to censor your temper.” And if curbing your tongue (or your texts) doesn’t make you less angry, it should at least spare you the backlash caused by any hasty, angry comments.

5. Learn Some Soothing Strategies

“When you are angry your heart rate and breathing rate go up, and your muscles tense up,” Rego says. “But if you can learn how to override that emotional experience and manage the physiology [the physical function] of anger by doing things like belly breathing, which is deep breathing, you will experience the anger much less intensely.”

You could also try closing your eyes for a minute, taking a short walk, or simply going outside for a few minutes to breathe some fresh air. Any of these strategies gives you a mini time-out—and that is all that may be needed for you to keep your cool!

FITNESS DEVICES AND/OR WEARABLES

The City's Health and Wellness plan, in partnership with HAWA, is pleased to announce the launching of another exciting component of the City's wellness program!

We are offering wellness devices and other wearables such as Fitbits, scales, blood pressure monitors, and glucose monitors for those employees and spouses eligible under our wellness program who complete required consultations and online tasks as outlined in the June 23rd email City employees received explaining the new program.

The City is proud to offer the following fitness devices/wearables:

- Fitbits (choice of the Fitbit Flex or the Fitbit Alta)
- Fitbit Aria scale (one per participating household)
- iHealth Arm Blood Pressure Monitor (one per participating household)
- iHealth Glucometer and test strips

If you are interested in participating in the device/wearable program, please print out the "City of Woodstock Device/Wearable Wellness Program Employee Authorization and Purchase Form" you previously received and submit to Deb Schober or Jill May in the Human Resources Department – the form should be submitted to HR no later than July 22, 2016.

In order for covered employees and spouses to be eligible for this component of the City's Wellness Program, the following steps must be completed:

Set a goal on your HAWA profile.

Set an appointment via your HAWA profile with a HAWA professional of your choice. Have an initial consultation with a HAWA professional(s) to discuss that goal. During the consultation with any HAWA professional (of your choice), you and the HAWA professional will assess what steps should be taken to attain that goal and/or address risks identified within your HealthPoint Checkup and assess which device(s)/wearable(s) will help you to achieve that goal and/or address the risks identified from your HealthPoint Checkup results.

You will receive the device (either direct shipment to home or Woodstock HR) and must log onto the HAWA site and sync the device to your HAWA profile and/or your PC or smartphone for proper set up and tracking.

Within two (2) weeks of receipt of the device/wearable, schedule and participate in a second consultation to discuss the data, the results, and next steps for goal attainment and/or addressing your risk factors.

Three (3) months after the second consultation (following approximately 14 weeks of device/wearable usage) schedule and participate in a third consultation to discuss the data, the results, and next steps for goal attainment and/or addressing of risk factors.

Six (6) months after the third consultation (following approximately 6.5 months of device/wearable usage) schedule and participate in a fourth consultation to discuss the data, the results, and next steps for goal attainment and/or addressing of risk factors.

Note: The member is responsible to schedule the HAWA consultations with the HAWA professional of his/her choice based on the applicable goal(s). For those members with multiple goals, the HAWA professional will advise you if another professional would be more appropriate to your needs. This is a fantastic opportunity to assist you in reaching your healthy lifestyle goals!

If you have any questions, please contact Deb Schober or Jill May in the HR Department at ext. 11206 or (815) 338-1172.

Please come out at 1:30 to & show your support as they ride !

CITY RECEIVES GRANT TO SUPPORT POLICE BODY CAMERA PROGRAM

Grant Writer Terry Willcockson was informed this week that the City's grant application entitled "Capturing Crime: Police Body Cameras for Woodstock" has been awarded $9,600 through ComEd and the Metropolitan Mayor's Caucus. Woodstock is one of 23 communities across northern Illinois receiving awards for 2016, out of 83 applications submitted.

The grant will pay for half the amount budgeted to implement this new technology, which increases public safety for both residents and officers. All 36 Woodstock Police Officers, and two Community Service Officers, will be outfitted and trained to use the cameras. The program includes development of a policy & procedures manual, training for all supervisors and officers, and a dedicated server used to store the video footage.

Use of body cameras is increasing in police departments throughout the country and many report that the mere presence of cameras defuses tense situations immediately. At a recent national conference, Police Chief Ron Miller, Topeka KS, stated: "Everyone is on their best behavior when the cameras are running. The officers, the public, everyone."

The new body camera program will be the subject of an upcoming Coffee with the Chief meeting to alert the public as to the benefits of this growing technology.

How Ringo Saved Me From A Life In The Convent—A Girl And Her Guitar

In this extraordinary and intimate evening, Megon McDonough takes you on a musical journey of her career, starting with her early influences – the Beatles, Carole King, Joni Mitchell – followed by some of Megon’s own folk songs, ranging from the hilarious (such as the ones she recorded with the group The Four Bitchin’ Babes) to heartfelt hits like “Amazing Things.” In this personal show, see how music has the universal power to connect us all.

$20.00 Adults & $15.00 Students for WCST Fundraiser

James and the Giant Peach, Jr. follows last summer’s successful production of Lion King, Jr. While audiences may not be familiar with the music from this new show, they should be familiar with the Roald Dahl story – a young orphan boy is adopted by his two mean aunts, is given magic crystals to help himself, and drops them accidentally by a tree where a peach begins to grow. It gets larger and larger, falls off the tree, James and several insects jump aboard, and their adventures begin. Please join WCST’s 4th through 8th graders as they present James and the Giant Peach, Jr.

Fleet Maintenance Secures “Meeting” Hardware

Last Friday, July 8th, the Fleet Maintenance Division finished securing the hardware on the sculpture entitled, “Meeting” set on the middle pedestal in the center of the Peace Park labyrinth.

Fleets would like to thank the Sewer & Water Maintenance Division for the use of their truck and a nearby lift station generator. The project would not have been completed without their assistance.

“Meeting” was designed and created by local artist David Orth.

Hickory Road Asphalt Maintenance Work

Beginning Monday, August 1, 2016, the Street Maintenance Division will close portions of Hickory Road between Dean Street and Winslow Avenue for asphalt maintenance. Established detour signage and notifications posted nearby on the City’s trailered sign board will move traffic safely around the areas under construction. To reduce negative impact on traffic flow as well as affected residents, planned maintenance includes block-by-block closures rather than closing the entire road. Mass mailing notification distributed by Public Works will include scheduled closure dates, work to be completed, and contact information to address concerns.

If you have any questions please contact Barry Pierce, Street Maintenance Superintendent at pwdept@woodstockil.gov or at (815) 338-6118.

Apple Creek Park Playground Mulch

The City of Woodstock takes pride in its parks and values their appearance and safety. Within the park system there are several different products used which helps create safe playing surfaces by reducing fall injuries.

Recently, the Public Works Parks and Facilities Division installed 100 yards of safety mulch at our Apple Creek Park playground. The product used is certified as a safety surface for playgrounds and complies with all applicable rules and regulations.

If you have any questions about this project, please contact the Department of Public Works, 815-338-6118.

SPECIAL CENSUS

Special Census Jobs in Woodstock!

In the near future, the U.S. Census Bureau will conduct a Special Census in our community at the request of the City. Local residents are needed to work as Office Clerks, Enumerators, and Crew Leaders for this effort. Office Clerks are paid $11.99 per hour and perform clerical work in the Woodstock Census office location. Enumerators are paid $14.99 per hour plus mileage and visit households and collect a few facts about each member such as name, age, and relationship to the householder. Crew Leaders are paid $16.49 per hour plus mileage and serve as leaders to others in this process. The U.S. Census Bureau is seeking approximately 45 applicants to fill the roles of Clerk (1 role), Crew Leader (1 role) and Enumerators (5-11 roles) for Woodstock's special census.

To be considered for temporary census employment, please review the job description fact sheet to determine if you meet basic eligibility requirements. Then submit a completed United States Census Bureau job application to Woodstock City Hall no later than July 29, 2016. The job description fact sheet and job application can be viewed online by clicking on "Employment" on the upper left side of the page at www.census.gov/programs-surveys/specialcensus.html. Paper copies of both documents can also be picked up/dropped off at or mailed to City Hall, Human Resources department located at 121 W. Calhoun Street, Woodstock, IL 60098. Those applicants wishing to submit scanned and signed copies of applications electronically, may do so by emailing them to dschober@woodstockil.gov.

You will be contacted just prior to the Special Census, expected to occur in the late summer time period, to take a job-related test to further determine suitability for census employment. The job description fact sheet and application also includes information about identification documents you need to bring to the testing session. If selected, you will be invited to attend a training class and then given a work assignment that lasts approximately 3 to 5 weeks.

For more information about Special Census jobs in our community, please contact Deb Schober, MS, SPHR, City of Woodstock Human Resources Director at City Hall at (815) 338-1172 or via email at dschober@woodstockil.gov.

Plaque Honoring Harold Ramis Placed at Woodstock Theatre

Classic Cinemas Marketing Manager Mark Mazimas admires the plaque honoring writer/director Harold Ramis at the Woodstock Theatre, 209 Main Street, Woodstock, Illinois. The plaque is positioned outside the theatre's Harold Ramis Auditorium, which was dedicated in 2015 to honor the writer/director who passed away the year before. "As a legendary director and actor, Harold Ramis brought to life the classic film 'Groundhog Day' and notoriety to the Woodstock community," says Classic Cinemas CEO Chris Johnson. "This plaque with his handprint is a most personal touch to mark his namesake's auditorium at the Woodstock Theatre." Ramis directed "Groundhog Day," which is shown annually and features many locations in the community of Woodstock, including the Woodstock Theatre, renamed The Alpine Theatre for its film debut.
